Time tracking is one of the most common requirements from small to large business, so it's only natural that there are several types of apps that focus on this feature. Amongst them, we have a utility for Windows PC that makes it really easy to maintain time and expense records. Clockify is very simple and user-friendly, and it offers options to keep track of tasks, projects and other items for a real-time overview. Furthermore, it also comes with tools that allow users to view them, export them to PDF and export them to CSV for further processing. It's the perfect tool for business owners who require a detailed analysis of their financial data, in order to make informed decisions, as well as for managers who need to ensure that staff members are performing well in their work.

Installation & usage: All the different options of Clockify are handled in the form of desktop applications and a web-interface dashboard. The initial setup is simple and requires nothing more than a registration with the website (any Windows or Mac user should be fine). Once this process is over, a dashboard will be presented to the users, who can login and access the different options of Clockify. A click on one of the tabs will open a panel with various options, such as the one on the screenshot below. On the left side of the panel, the tabbed interface will show the list of users, projects and tasks, as well as any tags that were added. In addition, the project name will have a brief description and a description for the project will also be available if it was not created during the initial setup. On the right side, a table will be shown, which has the basic information regarding the project, such as the description, the creator, the tags and the completion date. The table below shows the task information in detail. This includes the project name, the date it was created, the creator of the task, the time spent on it, the tags, and the users who have been assigned to it. • Projects • • Tasks • • Tags • • Users • Furthermore, the table on the right will be expandable, which means that new columns can be added to it. If a task is not being tracked, a clock icon will appear
